DEBATE COMPETITION

As the date of our 73rd Republic Day is closing by, it is the duty of each citizen of our country to not only celebrate the occasion but also take time to retrospect on our journey - from the rainy afternoon of 24th January 1950 when the constituent assembly members put their signatures on the final document of our constitution to the eves in metro cities, packed and buzzing with people from all walks of life. Though being flaunted as the world's largest democracy, it is of at most importance that we ask ourselves - does the common man uses his rights responsibly? Are they mature and thoughtful enough to opt for the greater good than going with their sentiments? Is he even trying to seek clarity amidst the chaotic political manoeuvres strategized by power-hungry leaders?
